

Primateology Field Methods

Bamboo lemur at Antanetiambo. Photo credit: Raharimanana

Summer 2014

Primateology Field Methods:

Includes a week-long session at the Lemur Conservation Foundation's Myakka City Lemur Reserve in Florida led by Professor Natalie Vasey of Portland State University

Session dates:

June 15th - 23rd, 2014

Course fee:

$1675 -- includes field school tuition, lodging, meals, & ground transportation in Florida

Enrollment:

Learn more about the course and download an application at the website (<http://www.lemurreserve.org/vasey.html>). Information on how to achieve academic credit at the undergraduate or graduate level is available online. Enrollment is capped at ten participants per session. Apply early!

Application due date:

Preference given to applications submitted during by February 2014. Applications reviewed on a rolling basis afterwards till the course is filled. For more information contact Dr. Natalie Vasey (nvasey@pdx.edu).

LEMUR
CONSERVATION
FOUNDATION